MARTHA TRACY, A.B., M.D., Dr.P.H.
DEAN OF THE WOMAN'S MEDICAL COLLEGE OF PENNSYLVANIA
THE NEW DEAN

The Board of Corporators of the Woman’s Medical College of Pennsylvania takes pleasure in making this formal announcement to the Alumnae of the election to the Deanship of Dr. Martha Tracy. Dr. Tracy is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, B.A., 1898; of the Woman’s Medical College of Pennsylvania, M.D., 1904; and of the University of Pennsylvania, Doctor of Public Hygiene, 1917.

During the years since graduation Dr. Tracy has been a constant student and research worker in the laboratory branches of medicine. Her early postgraduate years were spent in the laboratories of Experimental Pathology of Cornell University and as an assistant to the Meningitis Commission of the New York Board of Health.

In 1907 she was called by the Woman’s Medical College to the Department of Chemistry as Director of the Laboratories, later to become Professor of Physiological Chemistry and Hygiene, and for the year 1917–18 to serve as Acting Dean.

As Alumnae Fellow in 1912, her time was devoted to work in the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University, under Lafayette B. Mendel.

Dr. Tracy is qualified for educational leadership, not only by this record of scholarship and scientific attainment, but by the natural gift of a lovable personality, endowed with gentle firmness, integrity of purpose, and a capacity for devotion of self to the great cause of medical education and opportunity for women.

She brings to this cause the traditions of New England’s sterling Colonial stock. Roger Sherman, of Connecticut, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was her great-great grandfather, and from both maternal and paternal sides she has the inspiration of kinship to a long line of statesmen, lawyers, diplomatists, and the inherited idealism of clergymen and missionaries.

The college under such leadership, faces a wonderful opportunity in the expansion of medical education and medical service for women at a crisis in our civilization which demands such a contribution to a stricken world’s necessities.

The program of the Dean, to which the Board gives its undivided support, is the development in Philadelphia, through cooperation, of a medical center for women, worthy of the opportunity and need of the time.

The Board of Corporators counts upon the assistance of a loyal undivided Alumnae to the fullest attainment of this end.
NEWS NOTES

The Woman’s Medical College of Pennsylvania delights to honor its graduates who are giving so generously of themselves in the pressing needs of the war.

Dr. Maude M. Kelly, class of 1917, who breezed in upon us a week ago, is returning for duty in France, and on the same steamer, we are told, sails Dr. Marianna Taylor, class of 1908, for reconstruction work with the Friends’ Unit.

The spirit of sacrifice and service is not monopolized, however, by those who leave us for foreign service; and to those women who, after years of rest from professional work, are taking up the burden of practice in this country in communities depleted of their proper quota of medical men, we offer our homage and best wishes.

Without the attendant romance of the adventure on treacherous seas, and in strange lands, our women are leaving the seclusion of their firesides, are taking “leave of absence for war duty” from husbands and children, and are buckling down to hard medical work.

In the wards of the College Hospital, Dr. Mary Greenwald Erdman is “brushing up” preparatory to taking the plunge after seventeen years of medical retirement. Dr. Erdman is of the class of 1892. She served as interne for a brief period in the West Philadelphia Hospital for Women and took the full Blockley internship immediately thereafter. For seven years she practised in Stroudsburg, Pa., and there married the rising lawyer, Wilton A. Erdman, who later became Judge Erdman. The call for physicians in the Medical Reserve Corps depleted the ranks of the medical profession in Dr. Erdman’s home city, and, feeling that the emergency demanded the use of her special training, she relinquished her active work in the Red Cross and in other club and relief agencies, took “leave of absence” from husband and daughter, and is now devoting several months to study and practical hospital experience, preparatory to active medical work.

Dr. Florence Bartlett-Tyson, class of 1901, after years of quiet home life, finds herself in a New Jersey town from which every physician has been called. With the approval of her husband she is again undertaking active medical practice as her contribution to the patriotic work of women.

We honor these women for their spirit of devotion.

To the war work of the National Board of the Young Women’s Christian Association our graduates are making generous contributions. The social morality campaign in the cantonment zones demands a highly specialized type of woman physician, and we note with great satisfaction that of the small group of medical women selected for the development of that fundamental social work throughout the United States, five are graduates of the Woman's Medical College: Dr. Pauline Root, 1883; Dr. Mary R. Noble, 1901; Dr. Esther L. Jeffers, 1907; Dr. Caroline Croasdale, 1912; and Dr. Rachel S. Yarros, 1893, who is also devoting the force of her strong personality to the training of secretarial workers for the special extra contingent work of the National Board.

No more conclusive evidence is to be found of the need of physicians in the social fabric, and we are proud when we realize that so many have received their early training in the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Ten strenuous days in the month of February witnessed the grand attack in the Emergency Drive for funds by the Woman's Hospital of Philadelphia. All objectives were reached and the enthusiasm of the "troops" carried them far beyond the goal set.

War conditions had made imperative the need for increased funds, and after quiet preparation the whirlwind campaign to raise $125,000 was launched under the direction of Miss Elvira G. Plumer.

At the present date the receipts total $145,116, with the returns still incomplete.

Contests for medical scholarships offered by the Corporators of the College and by the Managers of the Hospital were a feature of the drive, the two awards falling to promising Philadelphia students in a field of five contestants. Miss Mary A. Hipple and Miss Katharine Briegel are looking forward to the study thus made possible for them.

One of the very striking features of the campaign was the very large number of contributions in cash, much of it in small sums, indicating how wide a sphere of influence the Hospital controls and how deep is the appreciation by its clientele of the service it has rendered.

It was particularly gratifying to note the spirit of cooperation between the College and the Hospital which developed in the conduct of the campaign, and we believe that that spirit of goodwill is to be carried into the work of the future.

Our most hearty congratulations are extended to the Managers of the Woman's Hospital. In their success the whole cause of women in medicine has been strengthened.

Building alterations are rapidly nearing completion at the College Hospital to make it possible to accommodate the new Venereal Ward for women and children.

The equipment and maintenance of this new department is to be shared by the Woman's Hospital, the West Philadelphia Hospital for Women and the College Hospital.
Dr. Rose Hirschler has been elected the Visiting Chief of the Department. The internes and nurses of the three hospitals will have an orderly rotation of service through these wards.

The announcement made of the closing of the doors of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children comes as a blow to all women in medicine.

It is tragic that at such a time as this the public should be deprived of its service through lack of funds and that the women on its staff should have so large a part of their clinical opportunity cut off practically without warning.

It is to be hoped that this suspension of service is but temporary.

Early in February Red Cross Auxiliary No. 384 opened its workroom in the Pathological Laboratory of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania under the management of Blanche M. Barrus of the second-year class. Meetings for preparation of surgical dressings are held each Friday evening, and thus far the dressings turned over to the Red Cross Headquarters have been received with most favorable comment—Every little bit helps.

An innovation has been introduced at College in the afternoon teas given by the Dean on the last Friday afternoon of each month. Social relaxation now and then will promote good fellowship, and we hope Alumnae in the neighborhood will drop in to see us on these occasions.

We rejoiced last month to welcome Dr. Tallant and Dr. Kelly, just returned from their work with the Smith Unit in France. The informal accounts of their six months' experiences are most interesting. Dr. Kelly will return to France almost immediately, and Miss Deming, of our Social Service Department, is planning to accompany her.

The Washington's Birthday party at Brinton Hall on February 22, was enjoyed by all present. Blastopores and amino-acids, bones, tendons, and brain areas exchanged pleasant converse in a most amicable fashion, and the refreshments!—Apologies to Hoover! Even the red cherries fulfilled a long unsatisfied craving for sweets.

Recent Alumnae visitors to North College Avenue have been: Dr. Edith I. Flower-Wheeler, Class of 1897; Dr. Eloise B. Meck, Class of 1899; Dr. Alice W. Smith-Baker, Class of 1905; Dr. Gurulai Karmarkar, of Bombay, Class of 1892; Dr. Elizabeth C. Smith, Class of 1911; Dr. Viola J. Erlanger, Class of 1915. It is the greatest pleasure to us all to greet old friends and classmates in this way, and to hear the favorable comments on the progress of the College and the neighboring hospitals.
REGISTER OF ALUMNÆ

OF THE

WOMAN'S MEDICAL COLLEGE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The Woman’s Medical College of Pennsylvania is completing its sixty-eighth year of service to the community, and has conferred the degree of Doctor of Medicine on more than fourteen hundred women.

Her graduates have scattered throughout the length and breadth of this land, and many have gone beyond to the four corners of the earth with their message of healing.

Distinguished women are many of these Alumnae: members of scientific societies, contributors to medical literature, occupying positions of responsibility and usefulness in their several communities.

There is, however, nowhere a record of their activities, no authentic statement of work done since leaving their Alma Mater. In many instances the College has on its records no address by which the individual graduate can be reached.

In this year of the great war, when the sore need of the services of all trained citizens is so urgently felt, the call has come to the College from the office of the Surgeon-General of the Army, from the office of the Surgeon-General of the Public Health Service, from the head of the National Red Cross at Washington, first, for complete lists of the graduates of the Woman’s Medical College of Pennsylvania, and then for lists of those graduates qualified for certain special medical service.

We sent what we could. We were painfully aware of incompleteness. We were ashamed of the inadequacy of our information concerning our Alumnae.

In the Bulletin issued in December, 1917, we included a page-long questionnaire, asking that each Alumna receiving the Bulletin fill in the blank and return it to the office of the Dean. Several have done so and we express our sincere thanks and appreciation of their coöperation. Presumably about one thousand of the Alumnae have not responded.

Today we present the first section of our Register of Alumnae, which is a register of those graduates who have lived, or are living in Philadelphia and its suburbs. Exactly two of this group of Alumnae returned the questionnaire from the December Bulletin. If, therefore, the brief facts stated in regard to the physicians here listed are inadequate or inaccurate, we apologize and ask earnestly for elaboration and correction.

It is our intention to continue the publication of the Register until we have completed the list. Once more, we print a page questionnaire, in the optimistic expectation that all will respond cordially and fully as soon as the significance and value of such a Register are appreciated. This is an expensive undertaking, but we believe worth the price. If you feel like helping to bear the expense, because of the usefulness which such a list will be to you, send a thrift stamp or two with your returned blank.

Please return the data about yourself as promptly as possible.

Your classmates are eager to know what you have been doing since graduation.

Your Alma Mater desires to take pride in your accomplishments.

Your country wants to know what you are qualified to do when she needs you.

Do not be a slacker.
