We print as our frontispiece in this number the portraits of the first Faculty of the then Female Medical College of Pennsylvania.

Brave men, these, who believed that a woman physician would fill a need existing, though scarcely recognized, in those early days of 1850.

Two years later, in the interests of this College maintained against odds by these determined physicians and their colleagues, there was founded the American Female Medical Education Society, the Constitution of which worthy organization has recently been brought anew to our attention.

We print it in full as deserving consideration at this time, since the attached appeal has lost none of its force through these intervening sixty-eight years:

The following Resolution was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That the Society, publish, annually, a report of their proceedings—and that the names of the members and contributors be published in the Annual Report.
Prefixed is a copy of the Constitution of the American Female Medical Education Society, the objects of which are such as every philanthropist can approve. We send it to you with this appeal, and most earnestly solicit your co-operation in the movement. From every quarter of our country we are assured that there is a general and growing interest felt in favour of the Medical Education of Women, and the employment of them as Physicians. Most of the Graduates of the Female Medical College of Pennsylvania, which is located in Philadelphia, and those who have received the honours of other Medical Schools, who have entered into practice, have been very respectfully sustained, and are eminently successful. The propriety of employing competent female practitioners, especially in the diseases of their own sex and those of children—and in obstetric practice is acknowledged and responded to by the masses. So strong is the feeling in its favour, that a number of women are now in extensive practice, without the adequate instructions. Though serious accidents have occurred, in many instances from their ignorance, yet so natural and legitimate is the partiality, for admitting their own sex, only, into this peculiar practice, that, not only the most intense suffering, incurable, life long maladies, but even death itself has been preferred to the presence of the male attendant. The Female Medical College of Pennsylvania educates females only. Experiment has proved this is, as it should be. It has held three regular sessions, during which full courses of Medical Instructions have been given to classes of highly intelligent, respectable and energetic young women.

The expenses of the Institution, which have greatly exceeded the receipts, have hitherto been borne mainly by the Faculty, who have laboured without remuneration, and drawn largely on their private funds to sustain the enterprise. To relieve them of this onerous burden, and to ensure the prosperity of the school, we have resolved to place it upon a permanent basis, and to make the terms of admission as favourable as possible to all who are worthy, and limited in their pecuniary resources. For this purpose we appeal to your generosity, and solicit your aid and co-operation. We ask you for your name and such contributions, to our funds, as you are able to make, and to use your influence with your friends, in behalf of the cause. Our present object is to meet the pressing demands of the Institution and ultimately provide a fund for its endowment, to be permanently invested for its use.

This College was incorporated by the Legislature of Pennsylvania in the year 1850, and so far as chartered immunities are concerned, placed on an equality with the most liberal and successful Medical Institutions of our country.

The Faculty are gentlemen of known moral standing in the community, and of acknowledged professional abilities, and have proved themselves efficient and successful teachers.

Your attention to the subject is earnestly desired, and a response to our solicitations at your earliest convenience respectfully requested.

Please address Jos. S. Longshore, M.D., 229 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

HENRY D. MOORE, President.

No. 229 Arch Street, Nov. 25th, 1852.

Last winter the Friends of the College rallied to its support, and in a campaign conducted in January funds to the amount of $212,227.35 had been given or pledged to the cause of the College and its Hospital when the drive formally closed on Founders’ Day, March 11.

Since that time many of these pledges have been redeemed, so that a recent report of the Campaign Committee presented to the Board of Corporators, on November 9, showed cash collections to date of $164,574.75.

Such a sum of money received at this time is a wonderful help to the College in meeting its financial obligations during these difficult economic conditions.

It is important to note, however, that of this sum $48,434.60 was contributed in specific scholarship endowments, thus constituting a group of trust funds which, while of the greatest possible value in making a medical education available to many deserving students, does not provide in full the immediate resources needed by the College to meet its steadily mounting maintenance charges.

Other special endowments established at that time include the Anna Howard Shaw Professorship in Preventive Medicine, cash in hand $29,711.75; the Englehardt Lectureship on Nervous Diseases, cash in hand $2,697.00; and a small fund—$110.00—toward the endowment of the Department of Rhinolaryngology, named in memory of Dr. Mary E. Waidelich, of the class of 1915.

The Graduate Council of Alumnae contributed for reduction of the College deficit in cash $12,084.91.

There were, further, contributed for the special use of the College Hospital, funds totalling $13,389.30.

Thus there remains, of the total cash collected, the sum of $45,054.62—from which the expenses of the campaign were disbursed, reducing the unrestricted funds for College purposes still further.

The above review is introduced here to indicate to Alumnae, whose loyal support of their Alma Mater is so greatly appreciated, what has already been accomplished, but also that much remains to be done before the College Endowment has been increased to the point of providing annually an income sufficient to meet our growing needs.

An American Female Medical Education Society would today find scope for its activities, though the spirit of the times might suggest a different title.
CHANGES IN THE TEACHING STAFF

The following changes in the teaching staff of the College for the session of 1920–21 are announced:

Miss Lowell Bell, of the University of Illinois, and Miss Helen Kimmel, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, have been appointed Demonstrators in the Department of Chemistry.

Dr. Mary P. S. Rupert is on leave of absence on account of illness.

Dr. Thomas A. Cope is delivering the lectures on Clinical Pathology, and

Dr. Elizabeth Dixon Wilson, 1919, newly appointed Assistant in Medicine, is directing the laboratory work in Clinical Pathology under the supervision of Dr. Cope.

Miss Julianna R. Tatum has been appointed Technical Assistant in Clinical Pathology.

Dr. Viola Erlanger has withdrawn from the Department of Obstetrics and will take post-graduate work in this subject in Chicago this winter.
DR. MAUDE M. KELLY is appointed Demonstrator of Obstetrics.

MISS EDITH MARY FELIN has withdrawn from the Department of Histology.

DR. ALICE H. COOK has resigned her appointment as Demonstrator of Anatomy and as Instructor in Clinical Otology and has accepted an appointment under the China Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation as Assistant in Laryngology to Dr. A. M. Dunlap at Union Medical College in Peking. She sailed for China in October.

DR. BERNARD GLUECK, of the New York School for Social Work, delivered for the Department of Hygiene five lectures on “Mental Hygiene” to the Senior Class.

MISS MARY VANUXEM, who is in charge of the Department of Psychology at the Philadelphia Normal School, conducted for the Department of Hygiene an “Intelligence Test” of the first-year class, in October. She will, during the second semester, deliver eight lectures on “Applied Psychology” to the Senior Class.

DR. ELLEN C. POTTER, 1903, delivered, in October, four lectures on “Personal Hygiene” to the students of the first-, second- and third-year classes.

MISS MARGARET MAJER is assisting Miss Shaw as Physical Director in the gymnasium.

DR. ELSIE BLANCHARD is appointed Physical Instructor to conduct a weekly gymnastic class for the nurses of the College Hospital. An invitation has been extended to the nurses of the Woman’s Hospital of Philadelphia to join this class.

DR. ALBERTA PELTZ has been appointed to take charge of a dispensary of Orthopedic Surgery newly organized at the College Hospital.

FOOD

ONE of the serious problems of our College community is the problem of food. And when, in this benighted neighborhood of North College Avenue, food is found, the problem of its cost confronts us.

A committee of the Faculty and members of the Board of Corporators have wrestled with the situation, in an endeavor to provide adequate restaurant facilities at a cost as advantageous as possible to the students.

We are now authorized to announce that the College has purchased two houses on the northeast corner of Twenty-second and Seybert Streets, Nos. 1309 and 1311 North Twenty-second Street, and these will be altered and equipped so as to offer complete and modern cafeteria service to our community.

It is hoped that the Young Women's Christian Association of Philadelphia will coöperate with us in conducting this department.

Pending the completion of our Residence Hall Fund, and the securing of our longed-for building, this arrangement will, we believe, contribute some solace to our bodies and we hope to our minds as well.

ELECTION DAY

To many of us, the casting of our first ballots assumed the solemnity of a religious ceremony.

The Faculty declared a holiday for November 2, and a few days before this momentous date Miss Elizabeth Carpenter came to illumine our minds on the issues of the campaign.

Miss Carpenter always knows what she is talking about. There are a few rare souls in this world of whom the above may in all seriousness be said. And because some of us had suffered earlier at the hands, or rather the words, of one not blessed with this capacity, a representative of the “spread eagle” variety of campaign orators, we were the more grateful for a brief, clear exposition of the political situation, and concise directions as to how we should mark the ballot to accomplish our desires, whatever they might be.

We voted early, those of us whose residence in Philadelphia was permanent enough to make it possible. And this duty being done, we scattered throughout the city to assist at the polling places in collecting the National American Woman Suffrage Association’s “thank-offering” for the Anna Howard Shaw Memorial.

The center of these activities, so far as the college students were concerned, was in Germantown, and we turned in to the City Headquarters a total of $400.00 as a result of our work. Had every ward done as well, Philadelphia’s quota for the Shaw Memorial would have been advanced well toward completion. No final report on the National thank-offering is yet available as we go to press, but we cannot but believe that the women of the United States will rally to complete the $500,000.00 fund before the collections for the Memorial close on December 31; for, as a poor colored woman said in offering her one cent gift: “We sure do want to give something in memory of anyone who got us this vote.”
A LETTER FROM TURKEY

The following letter from a member of the class of 1903 carries its own appeal:

My dear Doctor:

It has been almost six years that I have not been able to write a line about myself to my dear college.

This terrible war was the cause of all. This war has broke my heart! taking my good, useful, fine husband, Dr. Kassapian, from me: He was a captain-surgeon in this terrible Turkish army. He was obliged to go, and there he was killed, leaving me all alone with my two weeks’ old baby and my nine years’ old little girl: as my poor family had been all exiled and many of them were dead, either from hunger or sickness or killed:

I am at present in Constantinople, attending to the refugees and orphanages, trying to get some comfort from the great sufferings of my poor people.

I will be glad to hear again from my dear college, where I was a happy girl. Please let me have again the dear old catalogue and give me all the news.

I would like also to subscribe for a nice medical journal, if you will be kind enough to recommend me. I would also like to have the address of my dear college-mates. I have lost their address with all my goods.

Excuse me for not writing your name, for I do not know who is who at the present in our college. I would like to know all, as it is like living the old times.

May God help us all. I remain sincerely yours,

(Signed) Dr. Ophelia Nergarar-Kassapian.

CHILD WELFARE, AN ENLARGING FIELD FOR WOMEN PHYSICIANS

DR. ANNA E. RUDE, Director of the Child Hygiene Division of the Children's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor, has recently sent to the Dean's Office the following interesting statement regarding the status and personnel of the Federal Child Welfare work:

NOVEMBER 10, 1920.

MY DEAR DR. TRACY:

Enclosed is a list of State Child Hygiene or Child Welfare Divisions and the names of their Directors. In some ten of these Divisions you will note that Public Health Nurses are Directors of combined Divisions of Child Hygiene and Public Health Nursing. In most instances this is a temporary condition pending the next meeting of the legislature, when it is hoped appropriations of sufficient amount to permit of separate Directors for separate Divisions will be granted.

The Directors in the Montana and Mississippi Divisions are temporary appointees of the United States Public Health Service.

With thirty-five states now having State Divisions of Child Welfare or Child Hygiene, I believe there are a number of opportunities for well-trained women in this field and should the Shepard-Towner Bill, ordinarily known as the Maternity and Infancy Bill pass, the creation of similar State Departments in the remaining thirteen states is practically assured, thus creating an additional demand for Directors.

I feel that women physicians are particularly fitted for these positions. I am also quite certain that there will soon be a very large increase in the number of municipal Child Hygiene Divisions, thus affording additional opportunities for medical women.

The medical women employed by the Children's Bureau at the present time are:

DR. ANNA E. RUDE, Director, Child Hygiene Division.

DR. FLORENCE MCKAY, Assistant Director, Child Hygiene Division.

DR. FRANCES SAGE BRADLEY, in charge of the Child Welfare Special, which is a motorized health center.

DR. GERTRUDE LIGHT, in charge of Conference Unit making physical examinations of beet-working children in Colorado.

DR. ELLA OPPENHEIMER, part-time research assistant.

DR. DOROTHY REED MENDENHALL, special writing.

All of the Physicians and Public Health Nurses employed by the Bureau are employed by the Hygiene Division and then detailed to other Bureau Divisions in cooperative surveys, as the one now being carried on in the beet fields of Colorado. Being a small bureau with limited appropriations it is not possible to maintain a large permanent staff, though this is highly desirable, and the personnel of the staff increases or decreases with the amount of field work.

One subject in which I am especially interested at this time, and which I believe few medical women appreciate the significance of, is the proper classification of Child Hygiene under the Congressional Reclassification Commission, which last year worked in the Government Departments. Undoubtedly you realize that the Child Hygiene Division of the Children's Bureau is the only federal Child Hygiene Division, and in fact, the Children's Bureau, insofar as I am able to ascertain, is the only federal bureau which gives a medical woman the opportunity of being at the head of a service. In spite of many communications from me to the Reclassification Committee regarding the proper placing of Child Hygiene, that is, that it should be classified according to corresponding classes in the group, Medicine and Public Health, it was not correctly placed by the Commission. This means that I shall have to watch for an opportunity to appear before the Commission and impress them as to the importance which Child Hygiene is now assuming in the Public Health Program of the states, for I shall not be content with Child Hygiene being given anything but the rating which its importance in the field of Public Health warrants.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed)  ANNA E. RUDE,
Director, Division of Hygiene.

COLLEGE NEWS

ON Sunday evening, October 3, Dr. Ruth Webster Lathrop had the honor of delivering the Durant Memorial Address at Houghton Memorial Chapel, Wellesley College.

It is the custom for an annual address to be delivered by an early student or former member of the Faculty who knew personally Mr. and Mrs. Durant, the founders of Wellesley.

The object of the address is to recall for the students of these days the life of the early days of Wellesley, especially as it shaped the ideals of the College, and also to interpret in the progress of the College the ideals of the founders.

Dr. Alice Weld Tallant, Professor of Obstetrics, attended the annual meeting of the American Child Hygiene Association, in St. Louis, October 11 through October 13. Dr. Tallant has been a member of the Executive Committee during the past year and is a member of the Board of Directors. She presided at the meeting of the Section on Prenatal and Maternal Care, of which she was Chairman.

Dr. Tracy, Dean, attended the annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association, in Louisville, Kentucky, November 15–18. During her stay in Louisville she addressed the meeting of the Women Physicians of the Southern Medical Association, and also spoke before an audience of several hundred interested high school students.

The Hallowe'en Party

On October 30, the Sophomore Class entertained the Freshman Class and other members of the College community at a Hallowe'en party.

It was a truly rustic occasion, entrance to the premises being over a stile of ancient and unstable character.

After more or less efficient activity with a lasso, if one was in good form and had luck, the capturing of a tenpin secured a handful of the evening's currency—beans—and admission to other "shows" was easily bought.

But it was no use trying to hit "Sally" with improved rubber golf balls. She was too quick, so one wandered on to other opportunities.

A farm boy, leading a prize cow, suggested that Dr. Potter urged the free imbibing of lacteal fluid; but his milk pail was not modern and sanitary, so we passed him by. The cow was a wonderful animal, though; you should have seen her "one-step."

Directed by the megaphone man, each brave and sporty guest entered upon the unusual experience of a passage through the digestive canal. It was a "ticklish" and electrical process, but most survived and emerged undigested.

To be told later, however, by the fortune-teller that a dark future with two husbands lay before one was, to say the least, discouraging.

Well, after these many trials, and some others I have not time to describe, we were mightily entertained by a little play entitled, "The Rag Carpet Cuttin' Bee."

The Sophomore "all-star caste" did itself proud, and a very merry evening wound up with "punch" and "hot-dog" sandwiches.

Now what will the class of 1924 think up to do next year?
The “Sing”

After many evidences of an intense musical interest among medical people in general and students in particular, and realizing the lack of facilities for gratifying these harmonic aspirations, a “Sing” was started this fall, one-half hour a week at noon; and to those on the inside, at least, it has seemed most successful.

Nothing elaborate has as yet been attempted, efforts being limited to short two and three part selections, but from the nucleus—who can prognosticate?

But whatever comes of it, we are having a jolly time, and even now the College is beginning to note a new richness in certain voices.

The Medical Club

On October 22, 1920, the Medical Club of the Woman’s Medical College of Pennsylvania held its first meeting of the year. The amphitheater was well filled with students, faculty members and visitors attracted by the announcement that Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, of Johns Hopkins University, was to be the speaker of the evening.

Dr. Barker was for many years associated with Sir William Osler as a fellow-teacher and friend, and no one is better fitted than he to speak on the life and work of that great doctor and teacher. All were delighted with the charming manner in which the speaker told of the sayings and doings of Dr. Osler while he was connected with the Johns Hopkins University. To those who knew Dr. Osler it was a real treat to have portrayed those peculiar traits of personality which endeared him to his students and friends, and the little expressions so characteristic of the man must have sounded very familiar indeed. Those who have never known him were fully persuaded that he was well worthy of the honors which men of the medical profession delight to give him, and moreover that he was a man much to be desired as a friend and teacher. All who were present will want to hear Dr. Barker again when there is an opportunity to do so.

The Medical Club is planning for other very interesting programs during the year. At our next meeting the diagnostic, prophylactic and therapeutics uses of sera and vaccines will be considered. Later on we hope to have radiotherapy discussed. While the greater part of our work will be that of our own faculty members and students, and will deal with various phases of laboratory, clinical and research work, we hope from time to time to have prominent speakers present special features of medical work which will be of interest to all.
The Club is composed of all students of the College, members of the Faculty, of the Hospital Staff, and of the Alumnae, and we are anxious for the hearty coöperation of all to make our meetings really worth while.

Stella Dodd,
President.

Senior Class

A large number of the members of the Senior Class spent a part of their summer in gaining practical experience as student internes at various hospitals. They all feel that the work was enjoyable as well as instructive, and that they spent a pleasant and worthwhile two months.

India Hunt and Sarah Ching were at the Worcester State Hospital;
Elizabeth Vann and Amelia Tutles at the West Philadelphia Hospital for Women; Ellen Holmes and Stella Dodd at the Woman's Hospital of Philadelphia, and Blanche Elliott and Mabel Curtiss at the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton. Several other members spent a week or more on the obstetrical out-practice at Barton Dispensary.

The Senior Class is engaged, with the help of the Hospital Appointment Committee of the Students' Association, in inquiring into available internships for women. The result is very encouraging, and a goodly number of hospitals not mentioned as open to us in the Educational Number of the Journal of the American Medical Association have been found ready and willing to admit women.

The class of 1921 was sorry to enter its senior year with one member missing. We are happy to learn, however, that Isabella Clinton hopes to be able to return to us from her home in San Francisco and finish her course at this College next year.

Junior Class

The advent of summer found many of the class of '22 hot in the pursuit of knowledge. Some, inspired by their work in the pathology and bacteriology laboratories, obtained positions in that field. Adele Streeseeman worked in the Laboratory of the New York Board of Health, Bureau of Laboratories, Department of Research, under the direction of Dr. William H. Park and Dr. Anna W. Williams; Marion Morse at Binghamton
State Hospital, New York; Doris Tuttle in the City Hospital, Rutland, Vermont; Polly Lerner in New York City; Marcia Smith at the Woman's Hospital of Philadelphia. Still others braved the seclusion of insane asylums: Caroline Vetkosky and Mary Hipple interning at the Foxboro State Hospital, Massachusetts; Hanna Mueller and Matilda Maerz assayed the task of nursing at the New York State Training School at Hudson, New York; one daring member, Mary B. Sloan, boasts of her title as “First Assistant to the Surgeon” in the Daniel’s Sanitorium, Georgia, during the summer months.

Not all of the various positions held were medical, however. Mildred Rogers was engaged in Social Service work in this city; Ruth Carpenter assisted at the Red Cross Headquarters; Lillian Shaw and Frances Shields assisted in summer camps, and the rest were “domestic” or otherwise.

We regret that one of our members, Mrs. Lillian Moore, has recently suffered from pneumonia and is unable to continue her work this session. She plans to return next year.

On November 5, the Juniors entertained their sister class, the Freshmen, at a “bacon bat,” out at Carpenter’s Woods, just to get acquainted. Like all picnics, it was fun for the sake of fun, and the price was a good healthy grin and lungs full of fresh air. From the “games you used to play” the “food boss” summoned the bunch to other duties and there was no anorexia discernible. The sun set and twilight fell over a big fire surrounded by happy girls telling tales and singing songs, with ne’er a thought of tomorrow.
HOSPITAL NEWS

Friends of the Woman’s Medical College and of the Woman’s Hospital of Philadelphia will be glad to learn that a contract has been signed which will provide for the heating of the two institutions from one engine room, that of the Woman’s Hospital. Thus a conspicuous advance in economic management has, we believe, been accomplished.

Of even greater interest is the announcement that an agreement has been reached whereby the dispensaries of Ophthalmology of the College Hospital and of the Woman’s Hospital will be merged into one, to be conducted in the dispensary rooms at the College Hospital, and that the dispensaries of Oto-rhino-laryngology of the two institutions will also be merged into one, to be conducted in the dispensary rooms at the Woman’s Hospital. Patients will enter for both of these consolidated dispensaries through the desk clerk at the Woman’s Hospital. The consolidation will take effect as soon as the necessary contract is signed and a communicating door is opened between the two buildings.

The above co-operative arrangements have been accomplished through the activities of a Joint Committee on Coöperation, whose membership includes five members of the Board of Managers of the Woman’s Hospital and five members appointed from the Board of Corporators of the College and the Board of Management of the College Hospital. The Committee will continue its work toward effecting further working agreements in other hospital departments.

Training School

Although there is a shortage of pupil nurses all over the country, the College Hospital is fortunate in having the usual number. The fall class has an enrollment of seven.

The Commencement Exercises for the Nurses were held in the College Building, on Tuesday, November 23, 1920, at 8.30 o'clock. Miss Katharine Tucker, Superintendent of the Visiting Nurse Society of Philadelphia, delivered the address.

A new feature in the Training School this year is Physical Culture weekly for the Nurses, under the direction of Dr. Elsie Blanchard, graduate of the Sargent School of Physical Education and graduate of the Woman's Medical College, in 1918.
